On September 13, 2013, Murphy & McGonigle, P.C. announced that Lindi Beaudreault has joined the firm as a partner in its New York office. Beaudreault joins Murphy & McGonigle from Shearman & Sterling, where her practice focused on enforcement defense and regulatory counseling of financial services firms, principally hedge funds. Beaudreault also has significant broker-dealer experience; she formerly served as Director of Global Regulatory Affairs at Merrill Lynch and as Director and Assistant General Counsel at Bank of America, where she defended SEC, FINRA, Congressional and New York Attorney General investigations and proceedings, and high risk regulatory examinations.

Prior to joining Merrill Lynch, Beaudreault served as Senior Counsel in the Division of Enforcement at the SEC, where she handled a number of IPO allocation, financial fraud and insider trading investigations.

“Murphy & McGonigle’s deep bench strength of SEC enforcement and regulatory lawyers; boutique, nimble nature; and commitment to world class service to sophisticated financial services clients make it the ideal fit for me,” said Beaudreault. “It is truly a law firm with a real mission and shared vision. I am thrilled and fortunate to be a part of it.”

“We have known Lindi for many years and are thrilled to add her expertise to our deep bench of hedge fund lawyers,” said James Murphy, Chairman of Murphy & McGonigle. “Lindi’s knowledge and experience in securities regulatory and enforcement matters will be an invaluable asset as we continue to grow our hedge fund practice. We are all delighted that this outstanding lawyer is now a part of our team in New York,” continued Murphy.
