Lowenstein Sandler LLP continued the strengthening of its private equity and mergers and acquisitions practices with the addition of Christopher Henry as a partner. For insight from Lowenstein, see “A Practical Guide to the Implications of Derivatives Reforms for Hedge Fund Managers,” Hedge Fund Law Report, Vol. 6, No. 29 (Jul. 25, 2013). Henry joins the firm’s New York office from Ropes & Gray LLP, where he had been a partner since 2006. Close on the heels of Michael Brosse, who joined Lowenstein Sandler from Kirkland & Ellis in January, Henry is the second lateral partner from a top 25 law firm to join the firm’s M&A and private equity group in 2014.

Henry’s practice focuses on representing public companies, private equity sponsors and their portfolio companies, and privately-owned businesses in mergers and acquisitions, leveraged buyouts, growth investments, dispositions, joint ventures and equity and debt financings.

“Our strategy is to broaden and deepen the services that our transaction, litigation and bankruptcy practices provide to our clients, and we’ve seen tremendous demand for M&A counsel, especially from private equity firms,” said Gary M. Wingsens, Lowenstein Sandler’s chairman and managing partner.

“Lowenstein Sandler is competing against the biggest firms to advise on significant deals,” said Henry. “There is an impressive game plan to grow the firm and it is executing perfectly. Its platform for middle-market M&A work is exceptionally strong. I’m excited to contribute to a growing practice at such a dynamic firm.”
