The seminar featured panel discussions with representatives from asset managers, in addition to financial services, legal and accounting firms. This article highlights the portions of the seminar addressing the establishment of parallel E.U. funds and Luxembourg debt funds; Brexit; and the E.U.'s proposed delegation rules.

For additional coverage of the ALFI program, including a summary of the keynote address of H.E. Pierre Gramegna, Luxembourg's Minister of Finance, along with the portions of the seminar that covered marketing funds in the E.U. and setting up an E.U. alternative investment fund manager, see "[Luxembourg Remains a Significant Point of Entry for Non-E.U.
